Euros 34

The coaches will drop you off at the Kasbah, the ancient medina with its narrow streets and bazaars. Accompanied by your guide, you will walk down to the Grand Socco (meaning "Big Square"), which divides the medina from the Ville Nouvelle area of Tangier and pass by the Mendoubia Gardens embellished with a large marble fountain and park benches. The square is particularly active during the evenings when vendors put up their extensive displays and sell a variety of second-hand goods, fruit and spices in the square. The market is particularly colourful, and the country women presiding over the stalls are known for their striped foutas and wide-brimmed straw hats.

Petit Socco was once one of the greatest souks in all Morocco and people would flock from miles around to buy food and clothes. In the nineteenth century the area became prosperous as trading with Europe increased. By the early 20th century businessmen, diplomats and bankers all had their offices located around the square and a plethora of hotels, cafés and casinos sprang up, attesting to the wealth of the area. However, by the 1950's the centre of commercial activity had shifted to the Ville Nouvelle. Refreshment in the form of mint tea and local pastries will be provided before you visit the Grand Mosque. The mosque was built on the site of a former Portuguese cathedral which in turn replaced a Roman temple dedicated to Hercules. It dates back to the Moulay Ismail period and was expanded in 1815 by Moulay Sliman. Mohammed V visited the mosque on April 11, 1947, before making a historical speech at Mendoubia Gardens.

You will have some time at leisure before you take the coach back to the port, or walk back by yourselves should you so wish.

Minimum 15 participants, maximum 40

Duration 5 hours

Euros 69

“How the Andalusian Horses dance” performance included

Late return onboard for lunch

Jerez de la Frontera has the distinction of being internationally famous for both sherry and fine horses. The Muslims called the town Scheris, from which the Spanish name Jerez and the English word Sherry are derived. Centuries of sherry and brandy production by venerable English and Spanish companies have created a landed aristocracy whose large ranches, flanked by vast vineyards, provide lush areas for horse breeding. With a winemaking tradition spanning more than two millennia, the most famous wine in southern Spain is Sherry, made from grapes grown in the area's chalky soil. The region surrounding Jerez benefits from a microclimate which favours grape cultivation. The coach will leave Cadiz for a 20 mile drive heading north to the town of Jerez. Upon arrival in Jerez you will visit one of the leading wine cellars, where you will be introduced to the mysteries of the blending process, a crucial step in the making of fine sherry as well as the different kinds of ageing process called “soleras and criaderas”.

You will visit the main Andalusian courtyard and some of the bodega's antiques before entering the “Gran Bodega”. This is one of the biggest wine cellars in the area and houses a fine private collection of Contemporary Art including 100 Picasso prints, paintings of Dali, Tapis, Chillida, Miró and many more. The visit ends with a wine tasting; enjoy the unique atmosphere of the Bodega as you savour the different types of sherry. On the way to the Royal Andalusian Horseriding School, the guide will take you for a short panoramic drive around Jerez de la Frontera. The prestigious Royal Andalusian School of Equestrian Art was established in the 1970's in the grounds of a splendid 19th century palace, and ever since the magical ‘dressage and dance’ performances executed by the horses have enthralled audiences. For a truly memorable experience, take the opportunity to see the Spanish-Andalusian horses perform their spectacular show. These beautiful, pure bred creatures have incredible grace, speed and stamina and their experienced riders display wonderful skills of horsemanship.

The Royal Andalusian School of Equestrian Art Foundation in Jerez de la Frontera is known all over the world thanks to its show entitled “How the Andalusian Horses Dance”, a unique exhibition of horsemanship which both exhibits and summarises the work which the institution has carried out since its establishment.

The Pearl of the South, also known as the «Rose City » because of its pink tinged walls and buildings, Marrakesh has long been host to international personalities and jet-setters. The city was founded over 900 years ago by a mysterious warrior hailing from the Sahara, Youssef ben Tachfine, and since time immemorial it has been an important crossroads of Arabic, Berber and Sudanese civilisations.

Its wonderful dry climate and incomparably beautiful location in the midst of a 3500 acre palm grove at the foot of the snow capped Atlas Mountains make it one of Morocco's most popular travel destinations.

The excursion will start with a visit to the magnificent Bahia Palace where enchanting Moorish gardens surround beautiful buildings with finely wrought sculpted ceilings. You will then proceed to the Medina, the ancient fortified city guarded by battlements. Here you will see the famous Koutoubia minaret, a landmark which is visible from practically anywhere in Marrakesh. After enjoying a typical Moroccan lunch and a performance of traditional folklore, you will be ready to explore the heart of Marrakesh, the famed Djema el Fna Square with its snake charmers, tooth-extractors, story tellers and acrobats who perform daily around sunset. Marrakech & Majorelle gardens

By air-conditioned motor coach

Minimum 15, maximum 35

Duration 11hours

Euros 119

Lunch included

Marrakesh, the Red City, is the most important of the four Imperial Cities and indeed from medieval times until around the beginning of the 20th century, the entire country of Morocco was known as the "Kingdom of Marrakesh".

The city boasts a long and eventful history spanning some one thousand years. Powerful monarchs have fought over the territory, which has seen the rise and fall of successive dynasties each leaving its mark in the form of magnificent palaces straight out of the "Arabian Nights", fabulous gardens, mosques and koranic schools. Home to intellectuals and writers as well as talented craftsmen, this bustling trading centre is an exotic blend of Arab, Berber and sub-Saharan influences and is the undisputed capital of Southern Morocco.

The drive to Marrakesh takes approximately 3hours, but there will be a 10 minute comfort stop on the way.

Upon arrival you will discover the glorious Majorelle Gardens, created by the French painter Jacques Majorelle over a forty year period. Majorelle, who was an avid plant collector, assembled specimens from the five continents, using his artistic sensibility to compose and colour his garden like a painting. The garden walls, fountains and villa itself are painted a very intense shade of blue which is known as Majorelle blue, inspired by the decorative tiles often seen on Moroccan buildings. The villa and gardens were bought by Pierre Bergé and Yves Saint Laurent in 1980 and lovingly restored. The building used by Majorelle as an artist's studio now houses a magnificent collection of Islamic art belonging to Pierre Bergé and Yves Saint Laurent and when Saint Laurent died in 2008 his ashes were scattered over the rose garden.

Next you will see the Koutoubia Mosque, the largest mosque in Marrakesh. This landmark building can be seen from almost everywhere in the city. Its iconic minaret, topped by four copper spheres, is as much a symbol of Marrakesh as the Eiffel tower is of Paris. Legend has it that the spheres were originally three in number, and made of gold. The fourth sphere was added by the wife of the ruler Moulay Yacoub who melted down all her jewelry as a penance for breaking her fast during Ramadan. Non-Muslims are not allowed to enter the mosque, but you will be able to visit the surrounding gardens.

You will then take a break to enjoy a typical Moroccan lunch (including wine, mineral water and tea).

Next stop is the Ben Youssef Madrasa. Founded in the Fourteenth century, it was once the biggest koranic school in North Africa welcoming 900 pupils who all lived on site, sleeping in dormitories built around a central courtyard. It functioned as a school up until the 1960's but is now a historical monument, delighting visitors with its mosaics and intricately carved interior decoration. The inscription at the entrance reads 'You who enter my door, May your highest hopes be exceeded', a blessing no doubt designed to incite students to greater endeavour.

After a visit to the old town and the many different souks selling carpets, metal work, clothing, spices and leather goods, you will walk to Djamma El Fna Square, which is the heart of Marrakesh. In 1050 the square was the scene for many public executions and the name Djamma El Fna, translates as "Assembly of the dead". These days however the square could not be more alive and is teeming with snake charmers, water sellers, fortune tellers, acrobats, musicians, henna artists and story tellers as well as a constant stream of locals and tourists. You will have one hour at leisure to soak up the amazing atmosphere before the journey back to the ship.

This tour includes a long drive: 3 hours between Safi and Marrakech

Lunch is included and will be served in a Riad. You will have the opportunity to taste delicious specialties as Moroccan salads, tagine of chicken with lemon, meat couscous with seven vegetables, fruits, and mint tea with pastries.

Essaouira

By air-conditioned motor coach

Minimum 15 participants, no maximum

Duration approx. 8h/8h30,

Euros 99

Lunch included

Set within ancient red coloured walls, Essaouira is undoubtedly one of Morocco's most enjoyable and attractive coastal towns. You will be charmed by the gleaming white washed houses with blue shutters, the art galleries, wood workshops, and the fishermen with their colourful boats. The town faces a group of rocky islands and is surrounded by an expanse of empty sandy beaches and dunes. Everything is within walking distance and the beaches are quite clean.

The tranquility of present day Essaouira contrasts with its rich and turbulent history. The Portuguese built a fortress here in 1506, Castelo Real of Mogador (the former name for Essaouira), and throughout the sixteenth century foreign powers such as England, France, Spain and the Netherlands tried to conquer the locality. Indeed this ancient trading and fishing port has been shaped by many different foreign influences over the years, giving the town not only a charming mixture of Portuguese, Berber, and French architecture, but above all a unique sense of tolerance and the laid back atmosphere which makes Essaouira so appealing.

ARRECIFE, LANZAROTE

Volcanoes & Wine

By air-conditioned motor coach

Minimum 20 participants, no maximum

Duration 3h30

Euros 42

The coach will be waiting at the pier and we will set off for the southern part of the island, passing the picturesque villages of Macher and Uga and crossing streams of black lava before we get to the south west coast and the site of « Los Hervideros » or the « Boiling pots ». Here the sea appears to bubble and boil, a natural phenomenon caused by the sheer force of the waves surging through a series of underground volcanic caves.

We will then proceed to Timanfaya National Park which extends over a unique volcanic landscape created between 1730 and 1736 when more than 100 volcanoes covering 50 km devastated this part of the island, destroying several villages in the process. The last eruptions were in 1824 but because of the very low rainfall on the island and lack of erosion the site has remained intact and appears much as it did just after the eruptions, a natural museum. On Islote de Hilario hill you will see that the thermal power of the volcanoes is still very much in evidence. Park workers will show you how dry weeds thrown on the ground catch fire instantly, while water poured into a hole produces steam like a mini geyser. Food can even be cooked as the heat from the earth's core serves as a natural grill.

On the « Lunar Route » to the heart of the national park we will learn about the history of the volcanoes and see rare plants which illustrate how Life will slowly conquer even the most inhospitable environment.

The excursion continues with a visit to the La Geria wine growing area where locals have learned over the centuries to adapt wine growing techniques to this unique landscape and produce the famous Malvasia wines. You will be amazed to see vine plants being grown in the black pitted holes left by volcanoes, and there will be a visit to a local wine cellar so you can sample the wine before returning to the ship.

PUERTO DEL ROSARIO, FUERTEVENTURA

Island flavours

By air-conditioned motor coach

Minimum 20 participants, no maximum

Duration 4h30

Euros 42

The excursion starts from the port of Puerto del Rosario where you will board your motor coach and drive in comfort along the eastern coast road. Your destination is Betancuria, once the capital of the Kingdom of the Canary Islands. The town was named after Jean de Bethancourt a French explorer who led an expedition to the Canary Islands in 1402 and founded the town in 1404. Our first stop will be the Casa Santa Maria a perfectly restored 17th century house in the traditional Canary style. Here you will see a widescreen audiovisual presentation about Fuerteventura and get to know something of the island's history. Afterwards, you will get to sample some Canary island specialities such as Cactus marmalade and Mojo, a garlic sauce which the locals eat with bread or the famous wrinkled potatoes. You will then head north to Tefia, and the "La Alcogida" Ecomuseum. The museum comprises several houses and one main building. You will get an idea of what life was like in the island before modern civilization came to Fuerteventura and how the "Majoreros" lived in the past. You will also see the animals that shared this hard and frugal life, goats, donkeys and camels. There are authentic bread ovens and mills, and artisans give live demonstrations of crafts such as embroidery, basket weaving, pottery, cheese making and forging. Visitors can buy the local "gofio" or bread made on site, or purchase handicrafts such as pottery, brasswork, baskets, embroidery and objects made from wood or palms.

The visit lasts about an hour and afterwards you will be taken to La Oliva one of the Aloe Vera plantations in Fuerteventura. The Aloe Vera plant is indigenous to the Canary Islands and you will learn all about its cultivation and the way it is used in cosmetics and the medical industry. After the presentation you may, if you wish, purchase some aloe vera products before the drive back to the ship.

LAS PALMAS, GRAN CANARIA

Scenic tour of Las Palmas and the Bandama Crater

(in-transit passengers only)

By air-conditioned motor coach

Minimum 15 participants, no maximum

Duration 4h30

Euros 49

The tour starts with a panoramic drive along Las Canteras beach, a 3 mile stretch of golden sand on the way to Doramas Park. The park is named after the last Guanche king of Eastern Gran Canaria (Guanches were the original Berber inhabitants of the Canary Islands). In 1481 on Mount Arucas, Doramas challenged the Spaniards to single combat; he slew his rival with a javelin throw, but was himself mortally wounded. The Spanish and Guanche forces then joined in battle, but without their leader the fight was soon over. This was the final act of armed resistance against the Spaniards. Many of Doramas's followers hurled themselves off the cliffs rather than submit to the invader, and this episode is commemorated by a bronze sculpture in the gardens of the Hotel Santa Catalina at the park's centre. You will have a short guided walk in the park which possesses a good collection of native plants and numerous palm trees and dragon trees as well as water features such as waterfalls, fountains and a pond full of huge Koi carp.

The tour continues with a visit to the historic old quarter of Las Palmas, known as Vegueta, a UNESCO world heritage site since 1990. The walled Old Town is a charming mixture of winding cobble stoned streets and secluded shady squares contrasting with the hustle and bustle of the town's oldest market and its colourful displays of local produce.

Next you will pass by the famous Plaza Santa Ana. This impressive square is guarded by bronze canine statues in honour of the original wild dogs which roamed the island and inspired its Latin name of "Canariae insulae" (Island of dogs). Later on the islands gave their name to the yellow song birds we know as Canaries. Santa Ana Cathedral with its soaring 19th century neoclassical columns faces the Plaza and behind it lies Pilar Nuevo square and one of the most beautifully decorated buildings in the city: the Casa Colon, where Christopher Columbus stayed during his first voyage to the Americas. The house is now a fine museum and art gallery and you will enjoy browsing through its fascinating collection of archive documents commemorating the discovery of the Americas, and the history of Las Palmas (inside visit).

You will then leave the city, and after a 25 minute drive arrive at Santa Brigida, to visit the "Casa del Vino". This small museum located in a converted Colonial mansion, retraces the history of Canary wines.

The tour ends with a ride up to the vast volcanic crater of Bandama, an extinct volcano rising nearly 1.900ft above sea level. Be sure to have your cameras at the ready as the panoramic view of the island and Spain's first golf course provide a perfect photo opportunity. The tour ends at the airport.

The wine tasting consists of a selection of three different wines accompanied by Tapas (Salt wrinkled potatoes, and an assortment of Canary Cheese, olives and bread).

This tour involves some walking on cobblestoned streets.
